Karin Schlapbach studied Classics and Italian literature in Basel, Berne and Bologna and received a doctorate in Classics from the University of Zurich. She is currently an associate professor of Classics at the University of Ottawa. Her fields of interest include later ancient Greek and Roman literature and philosophy, intellectual history, and dance research. Her project at the Italian Academy of Columbia University is part of an ongoing research on the Christian transformation of the ancient concept of scholé / otium ('leisure') and on the modern reception of Augustine.
