

Elena Mango

Elena Mango (1967) is a Swiss classical archaeologist. Elena Mango grew up in Geneva, Hamburg and Urdorf and studied classical archaeology, art history and computer science at the University of Zurich. After her licentiate, she became a research assistant at the Archaeological Institute of the University of Zurich under Hans Peter Isler. She received her doctorate in 1997. Since 2000 she was curator of the Archaeological Collection of the University of Zurich, in 2007 she habilitated and was appointed private lecturer in Classical Archaeology. Since 1 January 2011 she has been a full professor of Mediterranean archaeology at the University of Bern.